

Bidding

- Implemented strategy from <https://boardgamegeek.com/thread/89221/sale-strategy-article>
- If bidding will go high on a specific phase i.e a lot of high cards it is okay to fold early one or two times in order to save money for later rounds
- Wont spend more than half your money on any given hand
- Up the bid by 1-2$ each time if the card values are more than 20, will at least give you a mid-range card or the card that had a value of 20 or more.
- Wont spend too much for the 29 and 30 cards, more useful to have a lot of medium-high cards than spending everything to get the highest cards
- If the values of the cards are even, bet 1 or 2$ more than usual as winning these hands gives you an advantage in auction phase
- If you start, bet 2$

Auction

- Check every players cards and values for those cards
- Compare all those cards to the cards our agent itself has
- If there is agent with a card higher than our highest, we will not play our highest, otherwise play highest card in order to make sure we only play when we can win
